1.

The Challenge

Our first priority is delivering accurate, timely legal solutions for our clients. A key challenge for us is to ensure that we are always using our time as efficiently as possible. We operate in a highly competitive industry, and arming our lawyers with cutting edge resources is critical to our success. Executing a large volume of matters every day, the team must maintain high standards and deliver commercial solutions. This where our partnership with Thomson Reuters and Practical Law began.

2.

The Solution

Practical Law really does equip us to be trusted advisers to our clients given the efficiencies that it provides our lawyers and team generally. In terms of ease of use it is fantastic – our most junior lawyers are equipped with step-by-step guidance and resources so that they can get up to speed on unfamiliar legal issues. From a partner’s perspective, I can stay on top of in-depth updates on the significant legal developments relevant to our clients.

“In our view, they are market leaders in terms of what they produce and Practical Law is evidence of their market leadership, particularly in terms of knowledge within the legal sector.”

3.

The Benefits

Practical Law improves our efficiency by streamlining workflow, helping us deliver timely advice to our clients. The great thing about Practical Law is its scalability. You log on, review the content and if more detail is required, delve into the subject matter. Also, because a lot of the content has been delivered by very experienced practitioners who worked at top firms, we know we can trust what we're reading.

4.

The Future

We've had a relationship with Thomson Reuters for many years. In our view, they are market leaders in terms of what they produce and Practical Law is evidence of their market leadership, particularly in terms of knowledge within the legal sector. As a law firm, we strive to continuously innovate to ensure we give our clients the best we have to offer. Practical Law is part of our client solution, and we look forward to building on this in partnership with Thomson Reuters over the coming years.
